

The Housing Activity

Home values in Bloomington have steadily increased for many years. However, housing market activity over the past three years has led to a decline in the median home value. Even with this market correction, there has been an overall increase in home values over the past decade. The recent foreclosure activity may not be representative of the fair market value of property, still this activity may have an indirect effect on market conditions that are considered in value estimates. The January 2, 2010 estimated market value that was determined by the Assessor, reflected the market conditions from October 2008 to September 2009 and will be used in calculating property taxes payable in 2011.

Hennepin County Property Tax Statements

In early March, Hennepin County mailed out tax statements for 2010, which are based on the property's estimated market value as of January 2, 2009. In accordance with state law, this 2009 value reflected sales occurring from October 2007 to September 2008. Consequently, when you pay your 2010 property tax bill, the valuation it is based on is already as much as two years old. More recent and current sales activity will be reflected in your 2011 assessment for taxes payable in 2012.
